2016 HEDS Sexual Assault Campus Climate Survey

Executive Summary

In January and February of 2016, Saint Mary's College administered the Higher Education Data Sharing Consortium's (HEDS) Sexual Assault Climate Survey to its current students, both undergraduate and graduate. The goal of the survey is to assess the campus climate around sexual violence that informs decision-making and improvements that enable Saint Mary's to continue to work towards eliminating sexual violence. HEDS is a consortium of more than 100 private colleges and universities (primarily small, liberal arts institutions). Participating in the HEDS survey allows Saint Mary's to collect benchmarking data from similar institutions nationally who also administered the survey to its students during the same academic year. In total, 517 Saint Mary's students responded for a 33% response rate. A total of 49 institutions participated in the survey nationally in 2015-16 with responses collected from 13,401 women with an average response rate of 22%. Results below are isolated to women respondents only at all participating institutions in 2015-16 in order to control for gender differences in response. Available demographic data collected suggest those responding to the survey are representative of the Saint Mary's population as a whole in terms of race/ethnicity and class year.

Initial results of the survey were shared in April 2016 with the Presidential Task Force on Sexual Violence and the Saint Mary's College Board of Trustees. The results below provide for initial benchmarking for assessing and implementing improvements aimed at the ultimate goal of eliminating sexual violence impacting Saint Mary's students and students nationally.

Frequency of Sexual Assault and Unwanted Sexual Behaviors

- 9.5% of Saint Mary's respondents report being sexually assaulted since starting at Saint Mary's.
 - An additional 4.5% suspect they were assaulted but are unsure.
 - 12 percent of women respondents at participating HEDS institutions in 2015-16 report being sexually assaulted since starting at their institution. Rates for females at Association of American University institutions was 23% in its survey administration in 2014-15 (AAU, 2014).
- 11% of Saint Mary's respondents report an attempted sexual assault was made upon them with another 7% unsure but suspect that an attempt was made.
- More than half of Saint Mary's respondents have encountered unwanted sexual behaviors including verbal, non-verbal or brief unwanted contact.
- Nearly 6 in 10 of those assaulted report being assaulted more than once and a quarter of those assaulted report being assaulted three or more times.
- 27% of assault survivors report they were assaulted by more than one person, which is higher than females at other participating HEDS institutions (21%).

Location of Sexual Assault and Relationship to Person Committing Sexual Assault

- Of those sexually assaulted, more than 80% report the person committing the assault was a student from another institution and more than 80% also report the assault occurred off-campus at another college or at an apartment, bar, etc.
- Just over half of survivors report their assaulter was a nonromantic friend or acquaintance, 40% report it was a stranger.

Involvement of Alcohol and Ability to Give Consent

- Three-quarters of Saint Mary's respondents who are sexual assault survivors report the incident involved them consuming alcohol compared to 64% of women respondents at participating HEDS institutions while 79% of Saint Mary's survivors report the assaulter had been consuming alcohol.
- Nearly 60% of Saint Mary's sexual assault survivors report they were unable to give consent or are unsure if they gave consent due to incapacitation which exceeds the percentage who report the same nationally (46%).

Who do survivors tell about the sexual assault?

- Most sexual assault survivors report telling someone about the assault. Most commonly they confide in close friends or roommates.
- Saint Mary's sexual assault survivors report the incident less frequently to campus representatives or family members.
- Those that did not report that a sexual assault occurred indicate they did not because:
 - Felt they would be blamed
 - Wanted to forget what happened
 - Felt ashamed or embarrassed
- Only a small percentage of Saint Mary's students choose not to tell anyone of the assault.

Frequency of Use and Satisfaction with the College's Official Formal Reporting Process

- Very few survivors of sexual assault utilize the College's procedures for making a formal report about the sexual assault. Thirteen percent of Saint Mary's respondents who are survivors of sexual assault report following College procedures for making a formal report about the sexual assault. This may be due to the fact that most assaults are reported to have occurred off campus.
 - This compares similarly to women respondents nationally (14%).
- Satisfaction with the College's process for making a formal report and with the institution's response to the report is mixed among the few respondents who made a formal report.
- Among all respondents, while more than three-quarters believe Saint Mary's would take an official report of assault seriously and support the person making the report, there is less confidence that the College would take action against the offender.

Information and Education Received on Sexual Assault

- Saint Mary's respondents are significantly more likely to report having received education about sexual assault, resources, and reporting procedures and report they were more likely to retain the information received and found it more helpful than female respondents nationally.
- Fewer respondents nationally and at Saint Mary's report having received information about the College's procedures for investigating sexual assault.

Campus Climate, Safety and Supportive Environment

- Saint Mary's respondents report a positive and supportive general campus climate with support from faculty, staff and administrators.
- Nine in ten Saint Mary's respondents agree that their fellow students are concerned about one another's welfare compared to just over 70% of female respondents nationally.
- Ninety-four percent of Saint Mary's respondents agree they feel safe on campus compared to 77% of women respondents nationally.
- However, nearly half of Saint Mary's respondents report feeling at risk for either themselves or friends being sexually assaulted on or near campus or at an off-campus event or program connected with Saint Mary's.

Sexual Assault Definition (as presented in the survey) and Rates

The following questions focus on sexual assault experiences. Sexual assault is defined in the survey as referring to five specific types of sexual contact, which respondents did not want or for which they did not give consent.

- Touching of a sexual nature (kissing you, touching of private parts, grabbing, fondling, rubbing up against you in a sexual way, even if it was over your clothes)
- Oral sex (someone's mouth or tongue making contact with your genitals, or your mouth or tongue making contact with someone else's genitals)
- Vaginal sex (someone's penis being put in your vagina, or your penis being put into someone else's vagina)
- Anal sex (someone's penis being put in your anus, or your penis being put into someone else's anus)
- Anal or vaginal penetration with a body part other than a penis or tongue, or by an object, like a bottle or candle

Additionally, the survey asks respondents to consider only the following locations of assault: (a) on campus; (b) off campus at an event or program connected with Saint Mary's, including study abroad and internships; or (c) at a social activity or party near campus such as at an apartment, restaurant, or bar?
