

They saw a problem (sexual assault on college campuses).

They believed they could do something (file Title IX complaints).

They spoke up. They made a difference.

Annie Clark and Andrea Pino, founders of End Rape on Campus, are coming to South Bend to share their story.

Saint Mary's College:

Thursday, September 10th @ 7:00 pm,
Carroll Auditorium in Madeleva Hall

"A Culture of Commitment: Everyday Activism and Supporting All Survivors"

Lecture: "Everyday Activism" creates a culture of commitment to survivors. They envision a world in which we all support survivors holistically and create a culture that holds us all accountable for ending rape on campus.

University of Notre Dame:

Friday, September 11th @ noon,
Legends nightclub

"Feminist activism on a college campus"

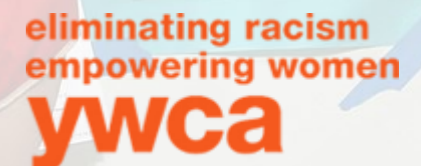

Discussion and Q&A with Annie and Andrea:
When you see a social justice issue that you know you should be involved in (but it's scary to take on!), how can you get involved?

Indiana University South Bend:

Friday, September 11th @ 2:00 pm,
Fireside Lounges in the University Grill

"A Discussion with Annie Clark and Andrea Pino, Founders of End Rape on Campus"

Discussion with Andrea and Annie, whose efforts are depicted in The Hunting Ground. Free and open to the public. A dating violence prevention specialist will be present, courtesy of the YWCA of North Central Indiana.

All sessions are open to students from all three campuses:

Come learn about their activism. Come be inspired!

TITLE IX

During the last year, activists used the law to make sexual assault a national priority.

The Department of Gender and Women's Studies at Saint Mary's College, The Gender Studies Program at the University of Notre Dame, and the Women and Gender Studies Program at Indiana University South Bend are grateful to the following co-sponsors who supported these events:

Belles Against Violence Office (SMC), Center for Women's Intercultural Leadership (SMC), Department of Communication Studies, Dance, and Theatre (SMC), Department of Film, Television and Theater (ND), Department of History (SMC), Feminists United (SMC), Film Studies Program (IUSB), First Year of Studies-Show Some Skin (ND), Gender Relations Center (ND), Kroc Institute for International Peace Studies (ND), Loyal Daughters and Sons (ND), Notre Dames (ND), SMC alumnae, YWCA of North Central Indiana